7. Budgetamendmentnecessary: No.

8.Fiscalimplications: Thisbillamends§37.1 -98toincludespecificprovisionsrelatingtothe dischargeofresidentsfromstatemental retardationfacilities. These amendments would permit any training centerresidentor, if the resident lacks them ental capacity, his legally authorized representative, to choose for the individual to be discharged. This amendment does not appear to change current practices on o additional costs would be incurred.

Thisbillalsoprovides that if any individual instatemental healthormental retardation facilities will be housed in an assisted living facility (ALF) upon discharge, certain requirements must be met. The predischarge plan must identify the facility, document its appropriateness for housing and capacity to careforthe individual, containevidence of the facility's agreement to admit and careforthe individual, and describe how the CSB will monitor the individual's care in the facility. Since CSB monitoring is already accomplished through case management responsibilities, this aspect of the bill should not result in additional cost. However, if monitoring is to be accomplished through different mechanism, additional costs may be incurred. The remay also be private sector costs associated with the ALF documentation requirements. At this time the reis no data to project the sepotential monitoring costs for the CSB sor ALF documentation costs.
