Summary/Purpose: The bill requires the Chief Information Officer (CIO) to work with representatives of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and Joint Rules Committee of the General Assembly to identify their needs. It also requires the CIO to develop policies, procedures, and standards that address the scope of security audits and the frequency of such security audits. The bill also directs the CIO to annually report beginning December of 2008, to the Governor and General Assembly those executive branch and independent agencies and institutions of higher education that have not implemented acceptable policies, procedures, and standards to control unauthorized uses, intrusions, or other security threats. For any executive branch and independent agency or institution of higher education whose security audit results and plans for corrective action are unacceptable, the CIO is required to report such results to the Information Technology Investment Board, the affected cabinet secretary, the Governor, and the Auditor of Public Accounts. Upon review of the security audit results in question, the bill gives the Information Technology Investment Board the authority to take action to suspend the public bodies' information technology projects, limit additional information technology investments pending acceptable corrective actions, and recommend to the Governor any other appropriate actions.
