A. A person who is held in custody pending trial or hearing for an offense, civil or criminal contempt, or otherwise shall be admitted to bail by a judicial officer, unless there is probable cause to believe that:

B. The judicial officer shall presume, subject to rebuttal, that no condition or combination of conditions will reasonably assure the appearance of the person or the safety of the public if the person is currently charged with:

2. An offense for which the maximum sentence is life imprisonment or death;

8. A violation of § 18.2-374.1 or 18.2-374.3 where the offender has reason to believe that the solicited person is under 15 years of age and the offender is at least five years older than the solicited person;

HB929

56 D. The court shall consider the following factors and such others as it deems appropriate in
57 determining, for the purpose of rebuttal of the presumption against bail described in subsection B,
58 whether there are conditions of release that will reasonably assure the appearance of the person as 59 required and the safety of the public:

60 1. The nature and circumstances of the offense charged;

61 2. The history and characteristics of the person, including his character, physical and mental
62 condition, family ties, employment, financial resources, length of residence in the community,
63 community ties, past conduct, history relating to drug or alcohol abuse, criminal history, membership in
64 a criminal street gang as defined in § 18.2-46.1, and record concerning appearance at court proceedings;
65 and

66 3. The nature and seriousness of the danger to any person or the community that would be posed by 67 the person's release.

68 E. The judicial officer shall inform the person of his right to appeal from the order denying bail or 69 fixing terms of bond or recognizance consistent with § 19.2-124.
