4. Title: Workers' compensation; injuries presumed to be in course of employment.

5. Summary: Revises the provision enacted in 2011 that created a presumption, in the absence of a preponderance of evidence to the contrary, that an injury is work related if an employee is physically or mentally unable to testify and there is unrebutted prima facie evidence that the injury was work related. This measure clarifies that the presumption applies when the employee's inability to testify pertains to testimony about the circumstances of the accident.

7. Fiscal Impact Estimates: Indeterminate

8. Fiscal Implications: The Workers' Compensation Commission (WCC) reports that this legislation could impact the WCC Uninsured Employer's Fund (UEF) because cases that are not compensable under current law may become compensable under this proposed legislation. The impact could be significant since some of the potential cases involve serious injuries with substantial medical expenses. It is not possible to accurately predict how many such cases may impact the UEF.
