8. Fiscal Implications: This bill increases the administrative and regulatory responsibilities of the Department of Professional and Occupational Regulation (DPOR) by requiring the Board for Asbestos, Lead, and Home Inspectors to develop a home inspection training module based on the International Residential Code and the Virginia Uniform Statewide Building Code.

The training module will be developed in conjunction with the Department of Housing and Community Development. It is anticipated that approximately three work sessions will be conducted to develop the training module. Board member travel and other related expenses for the work sessions will total approximately $4,140. The Board also expects to send a mailing to all current Certified Home Inspectors to provide notice of the certification requirement changes at a cost of approximately $300. DPOR also expects additional programming by current staff for record-keeping of the completion of the training module requirement at no additional cost.

The certification requirement changes could result in some home inspectors dropping the certification designation. This may be offset by potential additional applicants who wish to be certified in order to perform inspections on new residential structures.
