8. Fiscal Implications: Virginia law currently provides a mechanism for courts to order parents to share the reasonable and necessary medical costs of pregnancy and delivery expenses, with the division of costs being proportionate to the incomes of each parent. This bill, as amended, would specify that the initial petition for the establishment of parentage, when commenced within six months of the live birth of a child, shall apportion between the legal parents, in proportion to the legal parents' gross incomes, the mother's unpaid pregnancy and delivery expenses, as defined in the bill, and those reasonable expenses incurred by either parent for the benefit of the child prior to the birth of the child. Exceptions can be made for good cause shown or as otherwise agreed to by the parties. As amended, this bill does not have a fiscal impact on the Department of Social Services.

According to the Department of Medical Assistance Services (DMAS), this bill has no impact on its operations. According to the Supreme Court, this bill has no impact on the operations of Juvenile and Domestic Relations Courts.
