Offered January 10, 2007

Prefiled January 9, 2007

A BILL to amend and reenact §§ 8.01-512.4 and 20-108.1 of the Code of Virginia, relating to exempting child support payments from garnishment.

Patrons—Iaquinto and Suit

Referred to Committee for Courts of Justice

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia:

1. That §§ 8.01-512.4 and 20-108.1 of the Code of Virginia are amended and reenacted as follows:

§ 8.01-512.4. Notice of exemptions from garnishment.

No summons in garnishment shall be issued or served unless a notice of exemptions and claim for exemption form are attached. The notice shall contain the following statement:

NOTICE TO JUDGMENT DEBTOR

HOW TO CLAIM EXEMPTIONS FROM GARNISHMENT

The attached Summons in Garnishment has been issued on request of a creditor who holds a judgment against you. The Summons may cause your property or wages to be held or taken to pay the judgment.

The law provides that certain property and wages cannot be taken in garnishment. Such property is said to be exempted. A summary of some of the major exemptions is set forth in the request for hearing form. There is no exemption solely because you are having difficulty paying your debts.

If you claim an exemption, you should (i) fill out the claim for exemption form and (ii) deliver or mail the form to the clerk's office of this court. You have a right to a hearing within seven business days from the date you file your claim with the court. If the creditor is asking that your wages be withheld, the method of computing the amount of wages which are exempt from garnishment by law is indicated on the Summons in Garnishment attached. You do not need to file a claim for exemption to receive this exemption, but if you believe the wrong amount is being withheld you may file a claim for exemption.

On the day of the hearing you should come to court ready to explain why your property is exempted, and you should bring any documents which may help you prove your case. If you do not come to court at the designated time and prove that your property is exempt, you may lose some of your rights.

It may be helpful to you to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter.

81 § 20-108.1. Determination of child or spousal support.

82 A. In any proceeding on the issue of determining spousal support, the court shall consider all
 83 evidence presented relevant to any issues joined in that proceeding. The court's decision shall be
 84 rendered based upon the evidence relevant to each individual case.

85 B. In any proceeding on the issue of determining child support under this title or Title 16.1 or Title
 86 63.2, the court shall consider all evidence presented relevant to any issues joined in that proceeding. The
 87 court's decision in any such proceeding shall be rendered upon the evidence relevant to each individual
 88 case. However, there shall be a rebuttable presumption in any judicial or administrative proceeding for
 89 child support, including cases involving split custody or shared custody, that the amount of the award
 90 which would result from the application of the guidelines set out in § 20-108.2 is the correct amount of 91 child support to be awarded. Liability for support shall be determined retroactively for the period
 92 measured from the date that the proceeding was commenced by the filing of an action with any court
 93 provided the complainant exercised due diligence in the service of the respondent or, if earlier, the date
 94 an order of the Department of Social Services entered pursuant to Title 63.2 and directing payment of 95 support was delivered to the sheriff or process server for service on the obligor.

96 In order to rebut the presumption, the court shall make written findings in the order, which findings
 97 may be incorporated by reference, that the application of such guidelines would be unjust or
 98 inappropriate in a particular case. The finding that rebuts the guidelines shall state the amount of support
 99 that would have been required under the guidelines, shall give a justification of why the order varies
 100 from the guidelines, and shall be determined by relevant evidence pertaining to the following factors
 101 affecting the obligation, the ability of each party to provide child support, and the best interests of the 102 child:

- 103 1. Actual monetary support for other family members or former family members;
- 104 2. Arrangements regarding custody of the children, including the cost of visitation travel;
- 105 3. Imputed income to a party who is voluntarily unemployed or voluntarily under-employed;
- 106 provided that income may not be imputed to the custodial parent when a child is not in school, child
- 107 care services are not available and the cost of such child care services are not included in the
- 108 computation and provided further, that any consideration of imputed income based on a change in a
- 109 party's employment shall be evaluated with consideration of the good faith and reasonableness of
- 110 employment decisions made by the party;
- 111 4. Debts of either party arising during the marriage for the benefit of the child;
- 112 5. Direct payments ordered by the court for maintaining life insurance coverage pursuant to
- 113 subsection D, education expenses, or other court-ordered direct payments for the benefit of the child;
- 114 6. Extraordinary capital gains such as capital gains resulting from the sale of the marital abode;
- 115 7. Any special needs of a child resulting from any physical, emotional, or medical condition;
- 116 8. Independent financial resources of the child or children;

117 9. Standard of living for the child or children established during the marriage;
118 10. Earning capacity, obligations, financial resources, and special needs of each parent;
119 11. Provisions made with regard to the marital property under § 20-107.3, where said property earns
120 income or has an income-earning potential;
121 12. Tax consequences to the parties including claims for exemptions, child tax credit, and child care
122 credit for dependent children;
123 13. A written agreement, stipulation, consent order, or decree between the parties which includes the 124 amount of child support; and
125 14. Such other factors as are necessary to consider the equities for the parents and children.
126 C. In any proceeding under this title or Title 16.1 or Title 63.2 on the issue of determining child
127 support, the court shall have the authority to order a party to provide health care coverage, as defined in
128 § 63.2-1900, for dependent children if reasonable under all the circumstances and health care coverage
129 for a spouse or former spouse.
130 D. In any proceeding under this title, Title 16.1 or Title 63.2 on the issue of determining child
131 support, the court shall have the authority to order a party to (i) maintain any existing life insurance
132 policy on the life of either party provided the party so ordered has the right to designate a beneficiary
133 and (ii) designate a child or children of the parties as the beneficiary of all or a portion of such life
134 insurance for so long as the party so ordered has a statutory obligation to pay child support for the child
135 or children.
136 E. Except when the parties have otherwise agreed, in any proceeding under this title, Title 16.1 or
137 Title 63.2 on the issue of determining child support, the court shall have the authority to and may, in its 138 discretion, order one party to execute all appropriate tax forms or waivers to grant to the other party the 139 right to take the income tax dependency exemption for any tax year or future years, for any child or 140 children of the parties for federal and state income tax purposes.
141 F. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any amendments to this section shall not be
142 retroactive to a date before the effective date of the amendment, and shall not be the basis for a material
143 change in circumstances upon which a modification of child support may be based.
144 G. Child support payments received by a parent for the benefit of a child in the parent's custody,
145 whether the payments were ordered under this title, Title 16.1, or Title 63.2, shall not be subject to 146 execution, attachment, levy, garnishment, or any other legal process.
