SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 219

Offered February 22, 2008

Commending the Town of Ashland on the occasion of its 150th anniversary.

Patron—McDougle

WHEREAS, the Town of Ashland in Hanover County will joyously celebrate its 150th anniversary throughout 2008, culminating in a grand event on October 18; and

WHEREAS, Ashland was incorporated as a town in 1858, but its history goes back some 20 years earlier when the Richmond, Fredericksburg, and Potomac Railroad Co. (RF & P) purchased 457 acres in central Hanover County and built a 20-mile rail line to the site; and

WHEREAS, in 1851, the RF & P built a hotel on the land and after a mineral spring was found nearby, the hotel grew into a resort; a village grew up around the resort and residents named the community Ashland, after the Kentucky home of Hanover County native Henry Clay; and

WHEREAS, during the Civil War, Ashland was sometimes used as a base for Confederate troops, occasionally became a target of Union forces, and served as a refuge for people from Richmond, Fredericksburg, and other battlefront towns; and

WHEREAS, Randolph-Macon College, founded by Methodists in 1830 in Southside Virginia, relocated to Ashland in 1868; electric streetcars arrived in 1907 and the trolley line helped bring about a residential growth spurt in the town; and

WHEREAS, the business district, which had grown up along the railroad tracks, was almost entirely destroyed in an 1893 fire, and most of Ashland's oldest structures date from the early 1900s; and

WHEREAS, trains are still very much a presence in Ashland as some 40 of them pass through the town every day; although most are cargo trains, Amtrak passenger trains still make seven stops a day as they pass by the quaint old homes that hug the sides of the track; and

WHEREAS, Ashland has many special events and activities planned for this sesquicentennial year, including an oral history project, creation of a yearbook for the town, and, on October 18, old-fashioned games, art and sporting activities, performances by local music groups and school bands, preparation of a time capsule, and much more; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED by the Senate, the House of Delegates concurring, That the General Assembly hereby commend and congratulate the Town of Ashland on the occasion of its 150th anniversary; and, be it

RESOLVED FURTHER, That the Clerk of the Senate prepare a copy of this resolution for presentation to Mayor Faye Prichard on behalf of the Town of Ashland as an expression of the General Assembly's best wishes for a festive and delightful celebration.
