4. Title: Boiler and Pressure Vessel Safety Act; certain liquefied propane gas containers exempt from Act.

5. Summary: This bill exempts stationary American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME) LP-Gas containers used exclusively in propane service from the Boiler and Pressure Vessel Safety Act if their capacity does not exceed 2,000 gallons and the owner meets certain requirements. The owner or his servicing agent must inspect the tank every five years, maintain records of the inspection, and make the records available to the Commissioner of Labor and Industry.

In addition, the measure also provides that boilers and pressure vessels on the property of private residences and apartment houses with fewer than four units are exempt from the Act. Currently, the exemption applies only to such equipment inside such residences or apartment houses.
