5. Summary: The bill requires the Real Estate Board, under the Department of Professional and Occupational Regulation, to inform licensed brokers, in a manner deemed appropriate by the Board, of the broker's ability to designate an agent in the event of the broker's disability or death. In turn, the bill also requires the Real Estate Board to grant approval to certain persons in a specific order of priority as may be designated by a broker in the event of his disability or death to conclude the business of the broker. Under current law, the Board may grant approval to the estate or an adult family member or employee of the licensed broker.

8. Fiscal Implications: This bill increases the administrative and regulatory responsibilities of the Department of Professional and Occupational Regulation (DPOR) by requiring the Real Estate Board to inform licensed brokers of the broker's ability to designate an agent in the event of the broker's disability or death. This will require a mailing to all licensed brokers at a one-time cost of approximately $11,000, occurring in FY 2014. The Board currently regulates about 11,000 real estate brokers. No other additional costs are expected as a result of this legislation. The Board's current cash and revenue are sufficient to cover the increased costs associated with this legislation.

9. Specific Agency or Political Subdivisions Affected: Department of Professional and Occupational Regulation.

10. Technical Amendment Necessary: No.

11. Other Comments: None.
