5. Summary/Purpose:

This bill would allow a taxpayer, to the extent not already excluded or deducted from gross receipts, to deduct amounts paid to another person, who is not an employee of the taxpayer, pursuant to a subcontract between the taxpayer and such person from his gross receipts for the purposes of the Business, Professional, and Occupational License ("BPOL") Tax beginning with license year 2016. The Department would be required to publish guidelines implementing the provisions of this bill. Such guidelines would be exempt from the Administrative Process Act.

Under current law, exclusions from gross receipts are provided for i) commissions paid by real estate brokers to their agents that have BPOL licenses, ii) commissions paid by a security broker or security dealer to an independent registered representative on any sale or purchase of a security, iii) amounts collected by funeral services providers and paid to another person providing goods or services in connection with a funeral.

The effective date of this bill is not specified.

6. Budget amendment necessary: No.

7. Fiscal Impact Estimates are: Not available. (See Line 8.)

8. Fiscal implications:

To the extent that the gross receipts of taxpayers are lowered by amounts paid pursuant to subcontracts, this bill would have an unknown negative impact on local revenues. In Fiscal Year 2012, the BPOL tax generated approximately $705.0 million for the counties, cities, and towns that imposed the tax. According to Virginia Local Tax Rates, 2013, published by the Weldon Cooper Center for Public Service, a BPOL tax or fee is imposed in all 39 cities, 49 of the counties, and 99 of the towns in the Commonwealth. The potential local revenue loss from this bill could be substantial.

The Department considers implementation of this bill as routine, and does not require additional funding. This bill would have no impact on state revenues.

BPOL Tax

The Business, Professional and Occupational License (BPOL) tax is a tax on businesses for the privilege of engaging in business at a definite place of business within a Virginia locality. The measure or basis of the BPOL tax may either be the gross receipts or the Virginia taxable income of the business. Under current BPOL law, any locality may charge a license fee in an amount not to exceed:

- $50 for any locality with a population of 25,000 and greater
- $30 for any locality with a population smaller than 25,000

The locality may not assess a license tax on gross receipts upon which it charges a license fee. Additionally, the locality may not impose a license tax on a business with gross receipts:

- less than $100,000 in any locality with a population greater than 50,000
- less than $50,000 in any locality with a population of 25,000 but no more than 50,000.

Any business with gross receipts in excess of these thresholds may be subject to license tax at a rate not to exceed the rates set forth below:

- Contracting - sixteen cents per $100 of gross receipts
- Retail sales - twenty cents per $100 of gross receipts
- Financial, real estate and professional services - fifty eight cents per $100 of gross receipts
- Repair, personal and business services, and all other businesses - thirty six cents per $100 of gross receipts.

Localities that imposed a higher rate structure on January 1, 1978 are allowed to continue to impose the tax at those rates.

Taxability of Pass Through Costs

For purposes of the BPOL tax, Va. Code § 58.1-3700.1 provides that gross receipts means "the whole, entire, total receipts, without deduction." Additionally, a business that is not the legal agent of its customer may not exclude from its BPOL taxable gross receipts monies it receives from its customer as payment for costs incurred by the business with others who have no contractual relationship with the customer.

In some instances, an agency relationship meeting specific criteria enables a taxpayer to exclude certain receipts from the calculation of his gross receipts. Ruling of the Tax Commissioner, Public Document 01-38 (4/12/2001), establishes the following criteria: (1) there must be a contractual relationship between a taxpayer and both the client and the contracted third party; (2) the taxpayer cannot commingle its funds with all other sources; it must have a separate accounting system or a fiduciary account where the pass through receipts are recorded; and (3) the taxpayer does not report these "pass through costs" on its federal income tax return.

The BPOL tax is a gross receipts tax and allows taxpayers to deduct pass through costs in very limited situations, including the exclusion of commissions paid by real estate brokers to their agents that have BPOL licenses. Under current law, without a specific exemption, taxpayers are not allowed to deduct receipts subsequently paid over to an independent representative unless the taxpayer is acting as an agent in the transactions. Exemptions are provided for i) commissions paid by real estate brokers to their agents that have BPOL licenses, ii) commissions paid by a security broker or security dealer to an independent registered representative on any sale or purchase of a security, iii) amounts collected by funeral services providers and paid to another person providing goods or services in connection with a funeral. In all other situations, there is no deduction allowed for amounts paid to subcontractors.

Proposal

This bill would allow a taxpayer, to the extent not already excluded or deducted from gross receipts, to deduct amounts paid to another person, who is not an employee of the taxpayer, pursuant to a subcontract between the taxpayer and such person from his gross receipts for the purposes of the Business, Professional, and Occupational License ("BPOL") Tax beginning with license year 2016. The Department would be required to publish guidelines implementing the provisions of this bill. Such guidelines would be exempt from the Administrative Process Act.

The effective date of this bill is not specified.
