4. Title: Terms of rector and vice-rector at the University of Virginia

5. Summary: The proposed legislation requires the board of visitors of the University of Virginia to establish in its bylaws the commencement and expiration dates of the two-year terms of the board's rector and vice-rector. Under current law, such two-year terms are required to commence on July 1 of the year of appointment and expire on June 30 of the year of expiration.

6. Budget Amendment Necessary: No.

7. No Fiscal Impact: Preliminary. See Line 8.

8. Fiscal Implications: Section 23-74 of the Code of Virginia states that the terms of the rector and vice-rector, as appointed by the board of visitors, shall be for two years, commencing on July 1 of the year of appointment and expiring on June 30 of the year of the expiration of their terms. This firm start date of July 1 does not take into account the timing of board member appointments by the Governor as outlined in § 23-70 of the Code of Virginia. As it currently stands, a member could be voted rector or vice-rector by the board of visitors, prior to being reappointed by the Governor as a member of the board.

The proposed legislation protects the board of visitors from appointing a rector and/or vice-rector who, shortly after being elected, may not be reappointed by the Governor to the board of visitors.
