6 Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia:7 1. That § 19.2-306 of the Code of Virginia are amended and reenacted as follows:8 § 19.2-306. Revocation of suspension of sentence and probation.

9 A. In any case in which the court has suspended the execution or imposition of sentence, the court 10 may revoke the suspension of sentence for any cause the court deems sufficient that occurred at any 11 time within the probation period, or within the period of suspension fixed by the court. If neither a 12 probation period nor a period of suspension was fixed by the court, then the court may revoke the 13 suspension for any cause the court deems sufficient that occurred within the maximum period for which 14 the defendant might originally have been sentenced to be imprisoned.

15 B. The court may not conduct a hearing to revoke the suspension of sentence unless the court, ~~within~~ 16 ~~one year after the expiration of the period of probation or the period of suspension,~~ issues process to 17 notify the accused or to compel his appearance before the court within one year after the expiration of 18 the period of probation or the period of suspension or, in the case of a failure to pay restitution, within 19 five years after such expiration. If neither a probation period nor a period of suspension was fixed by 20 the court, then the court shall issue process within one year after the expiration of the maximum period 21 for which the defendant might originally have been sentenced to be incarcerated. Such notice and 22 service of process may be waived by the defendant, in which case the court may proceed to determine 23 whether the defendant has violated the conditions of suspension.

24 C. If the court, after hearing, finds good cause to believe that the defendant has violated the terms of 25 suspension, then: (i) if the court originally suspended the imposition of sentence, the court shall revoke 26 the suspension, and the court may pronounce whatever sentence might have been originally imposed or 27 (ii) if the court originally suspended the execution of the sentence, the court shall revoke the suspension
28 and the original sentence shall be in full force and effect. The court may again suspend all or any part 29 of this sentence and may place the defendant upon terms and conditions or probation.

30 D. If any court has, after hearing, found no cause to impose a sentence that might have been 31 originally imposed, or to revoke a suspended sentence or probation, then any further hearing to impose a 32 sentence or revoke a suspended sentence or probation, based solely on the alleged violation for which 33 the hearing was held, shall be barred.

34 E. Nothing contained herein shall be construed to deprive any person of his right to appeal in the 35 manner provided by law to the circuit court having criminal jurisdiction from a judgment or order 36 revoking any suspended sentence.
