8. Fiscal Implications: Under current regulations, children who have been committed to a state hospital or mental health facility must have written permission from his or her parent or legal guardian to be enrolled in an educational program provided by the facility. Written permission can be difficult to obtain given geographical and other barriers, resulting in many children being unable to participate. This legislation removes that requirement, making it easier for children admitted to state facilities to continue their education uninterrupted while receiving treatment.

For example, at the Commonwealth Center for Children and Adolescents (CCCA) – the only state mental health facility in Virginia for individuals under 18 years of age – full day educational services are offered to all children in its care, including classes comparable to the student’s schedule at his/her home school. However, only half of the children in the facility at any given time have received the required parental permission. For CCCA, the educational staff are employees of Staunton City Schools with program oversight by the Virginia Department of Education as a State Operated Program. There is no projected cost to this legislation at CCCA.

The Department of Education has estimated, however, that they will need two additional teachers at each of the following hospitals who are also served by DOE State Operated Programs: Children's Hospital of the King's Daughters (Norfolk), UVA (Charlottesville), and MCV-VCU (Richmond). The estimated salary and benefits costs is $75,000 each per teacher, for a total of $450,000. Additional materials costs are estimated at $30,000, for a total of $480,000 per year.
