Virginia's Subtraction for Crime Stopper Rewards

For federal income tax purposes, rewards for providing information to solve crimes are generally taxable.

During the 1988 Session, the General Assembly enacted legislation that provides an individual income tax subtraction of up to $1,000 for rewards for providing information to a law-enforcement official or agency, or to a nonprofit corporation created exclusively to assist such law-enforcement official or agency, that is used in the apprehension and conviction of perpetrators of crimes. The maximum amount of the subtraction has remained the same since its enactment.

This bill would be effective for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2020.
