During his later service on the bench, he was chosen as the A.L. Philpott Distinguished Adjunct Professor of Law and the John Marshall Professor of Judicial Studies at the University of Richmond School of Law and as a Distinguished Professor of Judicial Studies at the Washington and Lee University School of Law. He was named a Jessine Monaghan Fellow at the Washington and Lee University School of Law in recognition of his excellence in teaching law; and

WHEREAS, Chief Justice Donald W. Lemons's love of legal history and devotion to professionalism was recognized and honored by being selected as Master of the Bench for the John Marshall Inn of Court and the Lewis F. Powell, Jr. Inn of Court; President of the John Marshall Inn of Court in 2002; Honorary Bencher for the Middle Temple Inns of Court in London; and President of the American Inns of Court from 2010-2014; and

WHEREAS, Chief Justice Donald W. Lemons received countless awards for his service to the ideals of the law in our Commonwealth. Among them are the Virginia State Bar's Rakes Leadership in Education Award; the Dean's Medal for Judicial Excellence by the George Mason University Antonin Scalia Law School; the Rule of Law Day, Civility in the Law Award by the Virginia Law Foundation and Virginia Holocaust Museum; the Virginia Bar Association's Gerald L. WHEREAS, in his role as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Virginia, Chief Justice Lemons sagaciously balanced the competing demands of constancy and change. His leadership style respected the traditions of the past while embracing the never-ending task of initiating reforms for a better future. His emphasis on calm professionalism, both among judges and lawyers, was a wholesome force during challenging times. All of these characteristics showed their worth in recent memory when the Supreme Court of Virginia faced the challenge of providing access to Virginia courts during a pandemic and when the Supreme Court of Virginia performed its constitutional task of presiding over the judicial creation of the first nonpartisan legislative and congressional voting districts in the history of our Commonwealth; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED by the Senate, the House of Delegates concurring, That the General Assembly hereby commend Chief Justice Donald W. Lemons for his dedicated service and inspired leadership as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Virginia; and, be it
